TO DOWNLOAD CURRENT AND ARCHIVED ISSUES: Go to www.housing.utah.gov, click on Publication and then Newsletter. For the specifics of what's in this e-letter, read on.

How can I use this e-letter?

1. Just read through, for ways to grow your organization, or make it stronger, or find more grants.
2. Look in the archives for back issues, www.housing.utah.gov . Click publications on the top menu bar, then click newsletter.
3. Email us with special requests. kasmith@utah.gov

Do you guarantee all information?

Nope. We try to report as accurately as humanly possible, but can't be responsible for things like information on other websites, and changes, discrepancies, etc. Read the disclaimer at the end of this letter. The object is to save you time on first-sweep research so that you have more time to do good things, and also to assist you in accessing funding for good works.

What is included in the letter?

It's all based on what not-for-profits say they need. Basically, we are hearing that it is hard for each organization to devote much manpower to writing grants, let alone finding potential grants and researching background information needed to win them. We also hear that not all of you have big bucks for training, but are interested in high quality experiences for little or no registration fees. Tips and news were also requested.

CONTENTS: Below are descriptions of the kind of information you will find in each section; scroll down for actual items.

A. TIPS

Here, we pass on timely tips for your organization, and sometimes mini-lessons. Please contribute tips you want to share at kasmith@utah.gov.

B. NEWS

The news here is of importance to the nonprofit world, especially in Utah. What are the trends? Who is supporting the work that is important to your organization? What is changing? You can scan items to get a summary, and click the link for the whole story.

C. FUNDING, GRANTS AND RESOURCES

This is an annotated list of some of the best currently available grants and resources. Scan through, to see if there is one that will enrich your organization.

Grant offerings are organized under the following topics:

Animals; Arts, Culture and the Humanities; Community and Economic Development; Diversity; Education (K-12) and Other Programs for Children and Youth; Emergency Preparedness and Response; Environmental Issues; Health and Healthcare; Higher Education/Employment; Housing and Homeless Issues; Human Services/Social Change; Hunger and Other Food Issues; Information Technology / Libraries; People with Disabilities; Public Safety; Seniors and Aging; Veterans; Women and Girls

D. AWARDS AND HONORS

Does your organization deserve recognition? How about individuals who have contributed much? Some opportunities listed in this section will also bring cash awards, trips, publicity and/or free consultation services that will feed your cause.

E. SPECIAL RESOURCES

In this section, you will find reports and data that inform your work, but that also help provide the background and global data needed in writing winning grant proposals. A quick read here will let you know the gist of the report, and links take you to free downloads. Many nonprofit leaders cut and paste to a word processor file the notes on reports that interest them, for quick access. Or, they simply save the entire pdf. NOTE: The resources you need might be in other issues. Go to www.housing.utah.gov, click on Publication and then Newsletter.

F. CONFERENCES, TRAINING AND WORKSHOPS for staff and customers

We search for training that is free or inexpensive, but high quality. In general, we only report on events that are within geographic reach, though we sometimes let you know of interesting events outside this area that are specifically designed to make your job easier or more effective. If you know of something we have missed, please let us know at this email address: kasmith@utah.gov.

Now, the nitty gritty—plus links:

A. TIPS (Timely tips, and sometimes mini-lessons)

WHAT WILL SEQUESTRATION MEAN TO YOUR ORGANIZATION?

The good news is that most impacts will not set in for a couple of months, and optimists are hoping that during that time, Congress will act. But what if sequestration is what really continues? Pew Charitable Trusts reports that Utah would have slightly more than average cuts in federal funding. <http://www.pewstates.org/research/data-visualizations/federal-grants-to-states-subject-to-sequester-vary-widely-across-program-areas-85899448245>

The Federal Funds Information for States, a group created by the National Governors Association and the National Conference of State Legislatures that tracks the impact of federal actions on states reports that local governments will see even more impact than will state governments. <http://www.ffis.org/>

The National Council of Nonprofits (NCN), <http://www.councilofnonprofits.org/public-policy/fiscal-cliff-nonprofits>, has published a series of articles this fall and winter on the effects of sequestration for nonprofit organizations. Essentially, the alarm is for two reasons: the heavier demand for services from nonprofits that has been seen since 2008 would be increased, and at the same time, nonprofits would likely have access to fewer resources.

NCN reports:

The automatic $85 billion across-the-board sequestration cuts that were originally scheduled to occur on January 2, 2013 have been delayed until March 1, 2013. The cuts to domestic programs will both (a) increase the public's demand for services provided by nonprofits and (b) reduce funds for governments to pay their contracts with nonprofits.

The . . . cuts of 8% to 10% to virtually every domestic program will be added on top of four straight years of cuts at the local, state, and federal levels, including $1 trillion in cuts authorized by Congress in recent years. During this recession the workload of many of the states' nonprofits has increased as poverty levels have risen. Nationwide, research shows that the demands on the nonprofit sector have soared since at least 2008, increasing 85 percent in 2011, on top of a 77 percent increase in 2010, a 77 percent increase in 2009, and a 73 percent increase in 2008.

Separately, the New York Times reported on February 20 that these same cuts are seen as a risk of growth in the U.S. economy:

Consumer spending remained relatively strong last year, but may have weakened early this year after an increase in payroll taxes, part of a deal to avoid the worst of the fiscal cliff tax increases and to delay its spending cuts. . . The cumulative effect of the sequester and the tax deal struck in January might slash economic growth by as much as 1.25 percentage points — from a growth rate that otherwise might have been more than 3 percent — in 2013, economists estimate.

http://www.nytimes.com/2013/02/21/business/budget-cuts-may-stall-economic-growth.html?nl=todaysheadlines&emc=edit_th_20130221

The Nonprofit Roundtable of Greater Washington has an online webinar on contingency planning for nonprofits if the sequestration occurs. It was produced before the latest delay, when most people were still hoping Congress would act, but the issues are more pertinent than ever.

NEWS (Nonprofit news and trends.)

AFFORDABLE CARE ACT / MEDICAID EXPANSION

The National Healthcare for the Homeless Council is conducting a FREE webinar about the Affordable Care Act and Medicaid as it pertains to people who are homeless. Many of the issues discussed will pertain to other customers:

This webinar will identify the Affordable Care Act's policy changes related to eligibility and enrollment and the areas of flexibility that states have for making further changes, provide examples of enrollment best practices being implemented in health centers, and outline public resources available to help with outreach and enrollment activities.

The Affordable Care Act gives states the option to expand Medicaid to nearly all individuals with incomes up to 138% of the federal poverty level ($15,000/year for an individual), with open enrollment starting on October 1, 2013, in those states that have opted to expand.

While homeless service providers have encountered barriers to enrollment in the past, new rules for streamlining and simplifying the process are mandatory for all states, regardless of their decision about expansion.

Register for the February 27, 2013 webinar: <https://www.nhchc.org/event-registration/?ee=53> or search National Healthcare for the Homeless after that date for a replay.

C. FUNDING, GRANTS & RESOURCES (Annotated list of some currently available grants and resources.)

Animals

ANIMAL WELFARE ORGANIZATIONS

ASPCA Grants provide support to a variety of U.S.-based nonprofit animal welfare organizations through cash grants, sponsorships, and training. While they generally do not place a ceiling on grant amounts, most grants range between $500 and $10,000. Please bear this in mind when submitting your request unless otherwise instructed.

There are multiple categories of grants; peruse their web page.

SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP / FILM

The Sundance Institute Documentary Film Program (DFP) and the Skoll Foundation have announced the extension of the Stories of Change: Social Entrepreneurship in Focus Through Documentary initiative through 2013.

Launched in 2007, Stories of Change has helped nearly a hundred filmmakers and social entrepreneurs through a strategic combination of invited gatherings and documentary film project funding. Convenings at the Sundance Film Festival, the Skoll World Forum, the Sundance Institute Creative Producing Summit, and related gatherings have led to the creation of a network of learning and professional exchange for documentary filmmakers, change-makers, and their stakeholders.

The partnership between the foundation and Sundance also has made possible the production of ten feature-length documentary films that reframe and amplify the concept of social entrepreneurship — an innovative approach to the central issues of our time. The additional funds granted to the institute will provide continued support for these ten films and help extend their impact through the development and implementation of story-related strategies that engage short-form, interactive, mobile, social media, and other Web-based technologies.

The Sundance Institute Documentary Film Program and the Skoll Foundation today announced the extension of their partnership for the initiative Stories of Change: Social Entrepreneurship in Focus Through Documentary. The partnership, dedicated to exploring film's role in advancing knowledge about social entrepreneurship, began in 2007. It will continue through 2013, with an additional $1 million program grant.

 Community and Economic Development

CHALLENGE GRANTS / CAPITAL FACILITIES

The Kresge Foundation awards grants to small, mid-size, and large nonprofit organizations in six fields of interest: health, the environment, community development, arts and culture, education, and human services. Working with grantees, Kresge works to improve the life circumstances and opportunities for poor, disadvantaged and marginalized individuals, families, and communities.

Grant seekers may apply online for facilities capital in the form of a challenge grant. All other granting and investing methods are determined by the foundation based on the particular needs of a given organization and project.

Be sure to read all the web pages, including the values criteria.

SCHOOL GARDENS

Grants of $2,000, along with curriculum resources and mentorship, will be provided to one thousand schools and garden-related nonprofit organizations to support the launch or expansion of school gardens.

To be eligible for a garden grant, applicants must be a nonprofit K-12 school or school district (public, private, or charter; elementary, middle, or secondary), or a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization working in partnership with one or more K-12 schools. Applicants must be developing or currently maintaining a school garden project that will help children engage with fresh fruits and vegetables. Garden projects may be at any stage of development, planning, construction, or operation. For cases in which an applicant facilitates garden projects in more than one school, multiple garden grants may be requested under a single application. In occasional cases, additional funds may be awarded for special projects. In selecting grant recipients, priority will be given to both limited-resource communities and projects that demonstrate strong buy-in from stakeholders. There is a limit of one garden grant per school.

NOTE: Whole Foods Foundation offers other grants related to childhood nutrition. It pays to explore their pages.

K-12 / CHANGE THE WORLD

Teams of K-12 students and their teachers/mentors in the U.S. are invited to enter innovative solutions to environmental problems and compete for more than $250,000 in total prizes.

The Siemens We Can Change the World Challenge invites students in the U.S. to team up with classmates under teacher/mentors to solve environmental problems in their school (grades K-5), community (grades 6-8), and world (grades 9-12).

Nearly 18,000 elementary, middle and high school students competed in last year's challenge, offering innovations in areas such as food-waste-to-energy, community-scale battery recycling, phantom-power load reduction, systematic behavior change, erosion control, wildlife habitat restoration, and sustainable agriculture for arid zones. Now entering its fourth year, the challenge is a collaborative effort of the Siemens Foundation, Discovery Education, the National Science Teachers Association, and the College Board.

Student and teacher/mentor prizes, which vary according to grade level and value more than $250,000 total, include scholarships, savings bonds, school grants, adventure trips, and a chance to present their idea at the United Nations. A panel of environmental experts and science educators will judge teams based on their research, analysis, and the ability of the solution to be replicated on a larger scale. High school students are specifically challenged to address energy, biodiversity, land management, water conservation and cleanup, or air and climate.

Teachers and mentors can register for the Siemens We Can Change the World Challenge, add their student teams, and begin formulating their projects at the We Can Change Web site. The challenge Web site is also designed to help teams begin their projects, offering a resource section that includes lesson plans, e-books, virtual labs, and other materials from Discovery Education to accompany each stage of the challenge.

Visit the Siemens We Can Change the World Challenge Web site for complete program information, entry procedures, and student resources. Start thinking now, and follow suggestions on the website. <http://www.wecanchange.com/>

HEALTHY ENVIRONMENTS FOR CHILDREN

Kresge promotes the health and well-being of low-income and vulnerable populations by improving the environmental and social conditions affecting their communities and by improving access to high-quality health care. They support work at the local, state and national levels. However, as a national funder, they look for projects and efforts that have wide potential reach and influence. In some cases, these may be place-based, local activities aimed at demonstrating solutions to practical or policy-related problems that can be adapted in many communities. In their place-based grantmaking, they look for projects that engage community residents as partners in promoting health in the places they live. They believe the most effective way to improve health is to assist those ready to tackle community-defined problems. Focused on fostering health equity, they put a premium on cross-sector, multi-field projects that address environmental and policy change. Programs that are primarily directed toward changing individual or group behavior are a low priority. They fund activities in these focus areas: Community Health Partnerships and Healthy Environments.

Those who apply must be:

U.S. 501(c)(3) organizations with audited financial statements that are not classified as private foundations. Audits must be independently prepared following Generally Accepted Accounting Principles or Government Auditing Standards. Financial statements prepared on a cash, modified cash, compilation, or review basis do not qualify.

Government entities.

Individuals are not considered.

Deadline: Preliminary Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis.

GRANTS LIST

The Grants4teachers site allows educators to search a database of federal, state and private foundations and grants available to schools and non-profit organizations. They do, however, capture your email address and also sell advertisements, so visitors need to use caution and discretion. This can be useful if you are not close to a Foundation Center Cooperating Collection, though it is not as easy to use (see entry below this one). The site also collects grant writing tips from contributors.

WILDLIFE / WILDLAND PROTECTION

Wilburforce Foundation

Grants will be awarded to wildlife and wildland protection programs in priority regions, including the Southwest Crescent (which reaches into parts of Utah), and for programs related to regional conservation science. Applicants must first contact a staff person.

See <http://www.wilburforce.org>

EDUCATION / ENVIRONMENT

Intel's main grant focus is education. Their website has an online survey which qualifies you for the grant application; be sure you read guidelines first. Schools and non-profit organizations seeking grant support are welcome to inquire about the potential for an Intel community grant. Please note, however, very limited funds are available for unsolicited grant requests since community grant decisions are usually made up to a year in advance. Priority is given to grants supporting education programs supporting the teaching and learning of science, mathematics, engineering and science (STEM). Intel reviews grant inquiries on a quarterly basis. If your program or project is aligned with Intel's funding priorities, you will be invited to submit a formal proposal.

Recipients need to be in an Intel community; Salt Lake City area qualifies.

HEALTHCARE / CHILDREN

If a UnitedHealthcare Children's Foundation Medical Assistance grant is awarded, grants can vary considerably. The UnitedHealthcare Children's Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit charity dedicated to facilitating access to medical-related services that have the potential to significantly enhance either the clinical condition or the quality of life of the child and that are not fully covered by the available commercial health benefit plan. This "support" is in the form of a medical grant to be used for medical services not covered or not completely covered by commercial health benefit plans. The website has some really useful FAQs.

HEALTHY ENVIRONMENTS FOR CHILDREN

The Kresge Foundation promotes the health and well-being of low-income and vulnerable populations by improving the environmental and social conditions affecting their communities and by improving access to high-quality health care. They support work at the local, state and national levels.

However, as a national funder, they look for projects and efforts that have wide potential reach and influence. In some cases, these may be place-based, local activities aimed at demonstrating solutions to practical or policy-related problems that can be adapted in many communities. In their place-based grantmaking, they look for projects that engage community residents as partners in promoting health in the places they live. They believe the most effective way to improve health is to assist those ready to tackle community-defined problems. Focused on fostering health equity, they put a premium on cross-sector, multi-field projects that address environmental and policy change. Programs that are primarily directed toward changing individual or group behavior are a low priority. They fund activities in these focus areas: Community Health Partnerships and Healthy Environment.s

Those who apply must be:

- U.S. 501(c)(3) organizations with audited financial statements that are not classified as private foundations. Audits must be independently prepared following Generally Accepted Accounting Principles or Government Auditing Standards. Financial statements prepared on a cash, modified cash, compilation, or review basis do not qualify.
- Government entities.

Individuals are not considered.

Deadline: Preliminary Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis.

COLLEGE DEBATE

As part of an ongoing effort to engage young people in policy issues critical to their future, the Open Society Foundations has launched Global Debates, a $20 million funding initiative to strengthen debate programs at colleges and universities around the world.

OSF will provide up to three years of funding to colleges, universities, and other educational institutions to integrate debate across disciplines. The International Debate Education Association will implement the programs and help OSF identify and provide support to grantees.

Grants will be available for institutions that have either very small debate programs or none at all. Grants also will be made to institutions seeking to promote public debates within the broader communities that they serve and to increase the capacity of young people from marginalized communities to engage in debates concerning controversial issues affecting their lives.

Grant applications are invited in the following areas:

Debate Organized by Consortia of Colleges and Universities will provide support for consortia of colleges and universities working together to organize large-scale debate in national or global contexts. Pairs or small groups of colleges may apply for a maximum of $200,000 to develop, organize, and support debate consortia. Funding may be used to establish new consortia or enhance and/or expand existing consortia.

Debate Sponsored by Departments and Schools Within Colleges and Universities will provide support for debate as an extracurricular or co-curricular activity of departments and schools inside a college or university. Academic departments or programs may apply for a maximum of $25,000 to establish a debate program at a college or university where none currently exists, provide teacher debate training or instruction, host debate tournaments and public debates, and/or travel to public debates and debate tournaments.

Debate in Student Clubs and Societies will provide support for debate in student clubs and societies in ways that go beyond competition to encourage authentic civic engagement. Students, faculty, or staff may apply for a maximum of $50,000 to fund the creation of debate clubs or societies where none currently exist, provide student debate training or instruction, host intra-mural debate tournaments and public debates, and/or travel to public debates and debate tournaments.

Supporting Debate Events will provide funding for university debate events -- both new and existing — around the world in any language. Not-for-profit groups, including but not limited to public or private not-for-profit universities, private not-for-profit organizations, school debate clubs, or other incorporated or unincorporated groups organizing debates for undergraduate university students as part of their activities, are eligible to apply. Funding of up to $50,000 is available for new events. Funding requested for existing events may generally not exceed 25 percent of the total expenses relating to the event.

For each program area, concept papers/full proposals will be reviewed on a rolling basis until funding has been exhausted.

Deadlines: Proposals for debate events should be submitted at least two months before the event. Various and ongoing

CHILDREN EXPOSED TO DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

The Weyerhaeuser Family Foundation Children's Initiative provides funding for programs designed to create and promote stability and resiliency for children who have been exposed to domestic violence. The program must contain all four of the following components:

- 1) Directly serve children who have been exposed to domestic violence ("Directly serve children" means that the Foundation will not fund programs that develop curricula or methodologies, train staff or educate the general public or that are designed to prevent domestic violence in general.),
- 2) Enhance the mother-child relationship,
- 3) Include a Domestic Violence specific parenting education component, and
- 4) Be a new program (Funding is for new projects that are within the first year of their development).

Priorities

The program will:

- 1) Have the objective of preventing future abuse and breaking the cycle of violence,
- 2) Assist children in coping with the physical, emotional and mental trauma of abuse,
- 3) Provide treatment and services beyond initial intervention,
- 4) Target children of middle school age and younger, and
- 5) Use an approach /be based on proven and documented strategies and provide clear metrics to measure the programs outcomes

SCHOOL GARDENS

Grants of $2,000, along with curriculum resources and mentorship, will be provided to one thousand schools and garden-related nonprofit organizations to support the launch or expansion of school gardens.

To be eligible for a garden grant, applicants must be a nonprofit K-12 school or school district (public, private, or charter; elementary, middle, or secondary), or a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization working in partnership with one or more K-12 schools. Applicants must be developing or currently maintaining a school garden project that will help children engage with fresh fruits and vegetables. Garden projects may be at any stage of development, planning, construction, or operation. For cases in which an applicant facilitates garden projects in more than one school, multiple garden grants may be requested under a single application. In occasional cases, additional funds may be awarded for special projects. In selecting grant recipients, priority will be given to both limited-resource communities and projects that demonstrate strong buy-in from stakeholders. There is a limit of one garden grant per school.

HUNGER / GUIDE TO GETTING FOOD HELP

"How To Get Food Help" is a NEW brochure from the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) targeted at consumers who may be new to navigating social services and assistance applications. The brochure clearly explains all FNS programs that consumers apply to directly, and it gives them basic information to identify which programs might be right for them. It also gives basic next steps to get them started in the application process, as well as links and toll-free numbers for more information.

It is organized and color coded by groups of people, such as seniors (60+), school-age children, and pregnant and nursing women. This allows consumers to self-identify which programs they may be eligible for.

“How To Get Food Help” may be a useful tool to add to your organization’s outreach strategy. Here are some tips from USDA on how to use the brochure in outreach activities:

- Hand out copies at any outreach or information events you have.
- Include copies in bags of food that are distributed.
- Talk through the brochure and help clients identify which group they best fit in.
- Use the brochure as a template to present FNS programs in your outreach presentations. Use the PowerPoint presentation featuring the content from How To Get Food Help.
- Use the brochure and PPT presentation to train your employees and outreach volunteers about FNS programs.
- Use the brochure to discuss outreach partnership and funding opportunities with your supporters.
- Create your own outreach strategies using the brochure, and let us know how they work by submitting a promising practice here.

VETERANS AND TRANSITIONING MILITARY

The National Resource Directory (NRD) is a collaborative partnership among the Departments of Defense, Labor and Veterans Affairs. It contains information from federal, state and local government agencies; Veterans service organizations; nonprofit, faith-based and community organizations; academic institutions and professional associations that provide services and assistance to support the military and Veteran communities. The NRD has information for wounded warriors, transitioning Service Members and Veterans, as well as those who support them. The site connects you to thousands of resources about everything from the GI Bill, to organizations and support groups for caregivers.

Even if you have visited the NRD before, you may not be aware of the many ways to stay connected with this website and the growing community of Veterans, Service Members, family members and caregivers that has developed around it. Below are 10 ways to "stay connected" so you can find the information you need, when you need it.

1. Keep up to date on news, events and other information of interest to Veterans and the military community by following the National Resource Directory on Twitter.
2. Access information from the National Resource Directory through your smartphone whenever and wherever you want it through NRD mobile.
3. Help your family, friends and colleagues stay up to date on programs and services for Veterans, Service Members and their families by suggesting that they subscribe to National Resource Directory email updates.
4. Become a part of the growing National Resource Directory family on Facebook.

5. Get news and information about resources delivered directly to your desktop when you subscribe to the National Resource Directory's RSS \(Really Simple Syndication\) feed.
 6. Find programs and services near you by visiting the National Resource Directory's Information by State section.
 7. Spread the word about the National Resource Directory by putting a link on your website or blog.
 8. Is there an organization or program in your community that you think should be included on the National Resource Directory? Recommend it through Suggest A Resource.
 9. View automatically updated resources available in your state directly on your own website or blog by adding the National Resource Directory's State Widget.
 10. Become a member of the National Resource Directory's LinkedIn group and connect with people who share your interests and concerns.

FREE ONLINE TECH TRAINING

Is this almost as good as a training grant? Designed for teachers but applicable in many situations, this site is a gold mine for free online tech instruction. Click on "Past Episodes" to check out the long list of half-hour presentations you can view anytime on your computer. Instruction is live Thursday afternoons 3:30 to 4:00 a good part of the year. The calendar is on the same page where the check in: <http://www.uen.org/facultyounge/>
